If you must bring other small children who need supervision, please bring someone to attend to their needs. Please no food or drink in the office

Some Frequently Asked Questions

What is a Constitutional Assessment?

A constitution is the totality of unique reactions and affinities of an individual; it takes into account the mental, emotional and physical state of the person. During a constitutional assessment the doctor gathers in-depth information about how an individual responds to stressors and the global function of the person. This assessment is a process that takes between 1 and 2 hours.

What will the doctor do with this information?

Your doctor will collect the information and look for persistent patterns. There are over 2,000 homeopathic remedies. The doctor may need time to study your case, or may give you a remedy at the time of your appointment. The purpose of collecting and studying this information is to find the homeopathic remedy that is suited for you at this time.

What can I expect from treatment?

The purpose of homeopathy is to cure, not to manage or suppress symptoms. It is virtually impossible to say how long it will take for chronic disease to be cured. Just as the remedy choice is individual, the duration and extent of cure is also individual. Homeopathy is a process. In many instances the effect of the medication can be very dramatic. Other times the process requires a fundamental shift in the disposition of the body, mind and emotional state. It can take time for these changes to occur. Usually patients will notice improvement within months in chronic conditions. Acute conditions typically show improvement within hours.

Are homeopathic medications toxic?

No. Homeopathic medications are made from plant, mineral and animal substances; they are regulated by the FDA and are considered non-toxic.

What is an aggravation?

An aggravation is a strong reaction to a homeopathic medication. Typical aggravations are when symptoms are more pronounced for a short period of time. This is usually a good indication that healing is taking place.

When should I page the doctor?

Doctors are available after hours to return urgent medical calls. There is a $35 charge for all returned pages. In a life-threatening emergency call 911.

Can I make a telephone appointment?

Yes. Charges for these appointments are at the doctors discretion ranging from $35-$90 for acute concerns. It is important to schedule office visits when possible. Insurance cannot be billed for phone appointments.

Are there things I should avoid while on medication?

We recommend that patients avoid coffee, essential oils and other substances that produce a strong response in the individual. These substances can antidote or effect the action of the medication.

How should I take my homeopathic medication?

We recommend that you take your medication when there are no strong flavors in the mouth—at least 10 minutes from food or drink before and after taking the medication. Avoid handling the medication as much as possible, putting it in your mouth directly from the envelope or the bottle cap.

Can I see my medical doctor while under homeopathic care?

Yes. Dr. Baker and Dr. Keys are licensed primary care physicians in the state of WA. For some patients they provide care as an adjunct to routine medical care and for others provide general care, referring to specialists as appropriate. It is up to the individual or the family to decide how they would like to complete their medical care.
